UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13 (Special).-The students, alumni and all connected with the university are pleased that arrangements are about concluded for a game with Princeton.

Although a game is about arranged for November

10 no one can see why Princeton should hold off from playing in this city. The most important point in favor of this city is the financial gain.

According to Manager Delabarre's statement after he had inspected the grounds at Trenton, where it is proposed to hold the game, the field is very rough and in order to be fit for use on November 10 should resodded. The time will not allow this to be be resouded. The time will not allow this to be done, however. Moreover, the ground is not level, the stands are distant from the playing field, and the accommodations for reaching the grounds are not of the best.

The team is showing up in fine form. On Wednesday the strong Crescent Athletic Club, which played such a close game with Yale, played here and was beaten by the score of 22 to 0. The playing of the home team war snappy and the defence was excellent.

BOSTON.

Beston, Oct. 13 (Special).-The Medical School opened its fall term on Thursday with an address by Dean Tallet. The first meeting of the college chapter of the The first meeting of the college chapter of the College Settlement Association, held on Thursday, was the occasion of a bright and interesting talk by Miss ida Wood, lately a Fellow at Bryn Mawr. On Friday afternoon Dr. J. B. Clark, of Amherst College, delivered an address on the subject of "Social Reform and Natural Law," before the Social Science Association.

Dean Van Meter is now convalescent, but before returning to his work at the college he has gone South for two weeks, in order the better to regain his strength. Dr. W. S. L. Gorton, who has also been seriously ill, is reported better, but will probably be obliged to lighten his work by taking an assistant in physics.

On Friday evening the juniors entertained the freshmen in the gymnasium.

The crew will probably be made up as follows: Pierrepont, Morris, Clapp, Keppel, Longacre, Thacher, Howard and Richards. The sophomores have also been on the water for acveral days, and are already picked for the winners, as they row in the same places as at New-London with one exception. The order will be as follows:

H. E. Pierrepont, Jr., stroke; J. H. Prentice, 7; W. G. Loow, 6; G. E. Bissel, Jr., 5; F. Dobbins, 4; A. W. Putnam, 3; L. Rando,ph, 2; R. W. Pressprict, bow. The Junior and Schior eights have not been chosen as yet; but the following will probably be the competitors: Senior shell—M. B. Spaulding, stroke; E. R. Sturgis, 7; F. W. Shepard, 6; E. H. Janes, 5; G. R. Ersech, 4; H. D. Brown, 3; C. R. Freeman, 2, and R. P. Kent, bow. Junior boat, E. W. Gould, 4; H. W. William Grosvenor, Mrs. J. The crew of graduates which will also row in the race has not as yet been decided upon, but among the dozen or more who row from time to time are several who are well known about college as the oarsmen who made Columbia's name on the water. The interest that is taken in the race this year is largely due, of course, to the prospects of a varsity crew; but another incentive has been added, as the graduates have offered to give each of the winning crew a handsome silver mug. The expenses are to be borne by the graduates. A small entrance fee will be charged.

While the athletic interest of the college is undoutedly largely centred in crews, still the other branches of athletics are active. The notices of the regular fall games to be held on October 29 are posted, and F. I. Fell, 35, is receiving the entries. The freshman football team is also doing good work and has improved greatly the last week. They will play their first game on next Wednesday at Garden City, against St. Paul's School. Thus far the following games have been arranged. October 29, Flushing Athletic Clob, at Flushing, October 27, Yonkers, Y. M. C. A., at Yonkers, November 3, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, at Williamsbridge, November 10, Yale, at New-Haven. The date for the Princeton freshman game has not yet been decided. The team will line up as follows: Ends, Joseph and O'Connor, tackles, Choate and Daggett, guards, Gurnee and Le Prince; centre, Beatty; quarter-back, Bedon or Wotherspoon, halves, Mitchell and Glipin. The fullowk has not yet been chosen. The musical clubs have reorganized for the winter and are hard at work practising. The Glee Club will be the best from the college for several years. The men who will sing in the club are: First tenors, J. E. Bullen, 36, law. Second tenors, R. M. Schell, 36, mines, L. N. Chase, 35, law; R. S. Corsee, P. and S.; Frederick Derricke, 37, law; R. B. CHANCELLOR UPSON LECTURES IN THE BUTTER-

FIELD COURSE AT UNION COLLEGE. Schenectady, Oct. 13 (Special).-The lecture delivered at Union College by Chancellor Upson yes-terday was one of a number by different speakers which have been provided for the college through the generosity of General Daniel Butterfield, who, the subject. The lecturer explained what was meant by the university, and then spoke of its history during the 110 years of its existence. "It is," he said, "a growth, as are all the best institutions of the English race. Among its members in former years are many illustrious names. Its founders were Alexander Hamilton, L'Hommedieu and Duane." The Chancellor explained the con-stitution and work of the Board of Regents. Its members are elected by the Legislature, and serve without pay. Its executive officers, a secretary and numerous assistants, occupy offices in the Capitol, and receive salaries.

The Regents have oversight of colleges and academies, grant and amend their charters, and, for cause, may abrogate them. They have charge also of the State Library and the State Museum at Albany and of all public libraries throughout the State. The secretary of the board, who is also State Librarian, has a class of young men and women, whom he trains for service in these public libraries. Among these libraries a fund of $25,000 is yearly distributed on proper application. The Regents hold examinations in the academies and high schools, according to the results of which a fund of $105,000 is distributed among these schools. Some years ago, by request of the legal profession and afterward of the medical profession, the Regents instituted examinations which must be passed by all those intending to study these professions.

The Chancellor closed his lecture by congratulat-by all those intending to study these professions. The Chancellor closed his lecture by congratulating Union College upon its increasing prosperity and its brilliant prospects under the inspiring leadership of its recently elected and accomplished president. He congratulated the undergraduates on their loyalty to their own Commonwealth in entering its classes. The lecture commanded the closest attention from all present, especially the very large new class of freshmen—the largest in the history of the college for many years. The lecture was frequently applauded, and received the college cheer from the students, given with great vim and vigor.

General Butterfield, who introduced the Chancellor at the opening of the lecture, had a most enthusiastic reception. In speaking of the practical value of the lecture in an educational point of view, he alluded to the new advanced and the practical system introduced at Union by Dr. Raymond in the college course of instruction in electrical science, being coupled with visits and lectures upon the machinery and construction at the great Edison plant in Schenectady. He expressed his belief that in time Union College would stand at the head of the world's universities in thorough instruction in electrical science. When the contemplated step was taken of combining practical example and application in mechanical science and principles with visits and study at the great locomotive works in Schenectady the college in this, the looth year of its existence, would lay the foundations for still greater and more successful work in producing "all-round" men, in their education fitted for success in any path in life. It would be very difficult to parallel or equal such local advantages.
